

Fortune 100 fastest-growing companies

Forget about coffee by the pot. Green Mountain is buzzing along by convincing a growing number of java heads to fuel their habit one "K-Cup" at a time. The makers of Keurig single-serving brewing systems, which have become fixtures in offices and hotel rooms, Green Mountain shipped 1.6 billion K-Cups in 2009, a 63% surge from the prior year.

The Vermont-based company has pushed westward in the last two years by swallowing up Tully's, a Seattle-based roaster popular in supermarkets and southern Californian roaster Diedrich Coffee. It's still a long way from Starbucks, but at $1 billion-plus in revenues, Green Mountain has delivered a jolt to the coffee business.
